Lydia was the first convert to Christ in Europe. Hers was a typical conversion. Note the steps therein: 1. Attendance at the place of prayer (v. 13).

The individual may place himself in the way of salvation by coming near to the means of grace, and the preacher may preach the Word of God, but there is no hope of salvation until the heart is opened by the Lord (John 6:44, 45). While the salvation of every one is dependent upon this sovereign act of the Lord, yet we can be sure that he is willing at all times to do this for those who, like Lydia, place themselves in the way of his saving grace.

BRITISH SCOUTS' WAR WORK

Harry Lauder, the famous Scotch comedian, on his recent appearance in Omaha, Neb., said of the work of the scouts in England:

"There are at present 240,000 boy scouts engaged in work in England that hitherto had been performed by men. Their work is such that a welltrained boy can accomplish as well as a well-trained man. Carrying messages across the country, helping wounded soldiers after their return from the battle front and a thousand other things keep the lads busy all the time. They are an important factor in England's destiny. The British boy scout is doing a great work today in the service of his country. "The man, the soldier, is the bull-the 'ferret.' There are 40,000 of these boys actively guarding Britain. With their keen little eves and their quest for romance and excitement they are playing a great part in guarding our sea-girt shore. "To be a boy scout is to be a disciplined good boy. and a good citizen is always respected.

Every boy as well as every man must Immediately following the declaration of war steps were taken to effectively organize, along lines similar to the coast guard work of the Boy Scouts of England, older boys specially selected in order that there might be available a resource for use by the navy department, should the occasion warrant.

Special organizations were perfected covering a large part of the Atlantic coast line, and in each case the boy nrolling secured special permission of his parents. All of their work was done privately.

The boys agreed to hold themselves in readiness for any emergency call. They also undertook to make a careful survey of the actual conditions in a definitely prescribed territory so that there might be available information as to the full resources of the community in case of disaster, including a list of all houses suitable for hospital purposes, names of all doctors, information about all automobiles, motorboats, etc., which might be of service.

In addition to this, in some of the naval districts, boy scouts co-operated in the early days of the war in locating unlawful wireless stations.

WHAT FOREIGN SCOUTS DO.

fore to keep America for Americans. Secretary Houston urges the boy scouts to double their production of food in 1918. It can be done. The scouts of every country in the world have made good. Belgian boys carried dispatches through the very enemy's lines when the most skillfully trained soldier couriers failed. Belgian scouts gave up their lives rather than betray the secrets of their country.

French and English scouts have many times secured information absolutely necessary for the safety of their countries' armies.

Certain it is that American boys would live up to the records made by these European scouts, even to the giving up of their lives if their country needed these supreme sacrifices.

American scouts, scoutmasters and scout commissioners already are in the trenches of Liberty's front lines defending civilization's freedom from barbarian onslaught. GEN. STRONG LIKES SCOUTS.

In a letter written by Maj. Gen. F. S. Strong, commander of the "Sunshine," or Fortieth division, at Camp Kearny, Cal., to President Frank von Tesmar of the Coronado boy scouts, he says: "A previous engagement makes it ossible for me to be with you. This is regretted particularly, because I have always had a great interest in the boy scout movement. I have had occasion to observe them in many parts of the country, and have noted their efficiency wherever they were called on

"In Honolulu they were invaluable in handling many details of the carnival and were highly praised by the governor and officers of the association. "The boy scouts as an association stand for everything that is honorable

If the scout's willingness to help others were not backed up by scout knowledge and ability, his "daily good turn" would have more of kindness than of genuine service to others in it. ARRANGE FOR SELF-DEFENSE Scandinavian Countries Find Themselves in Precarious Situation Because of the War.

The recent meeting of the three kings of the Scandinavian countries. so unexpected and so unusual was practically a meeting in self-defense, forced on them by the precarious situation in which the war has placed their countries, writes Maurice Francis Egan in the Yale Review. Sweden had prided herself on her militarism copied from the German system. Norway relied on its coast line, its shipping, its fisheries and the firm belief that it was practically independent of the world, with an assured future made by its own brains and its natural resources. Denmark, never free from the fear of the German Colossus, believed that England and Russia might save her from extinction at the crucial moment; and the preponderance of American opinion at the various Hague conferences made her hope that the moral force of our opinion might prevent her national extinction. These hopes are gone. Denmark fed England, she exported certain products to Germany, she had made herself the foremost scientific agricultural nation of the world, she was the freest, she was working out the ideals of her national life without desiring to acquire territory or to infringe on the rights of others; but the moment the United States entered the war she and the other Scandinavian nations gave up hope of any protection or help, and they have now determined to band together in an industrial, economic union. The world has deserted them and they have determined to do their best to become independent of the world.
